SPRAY FOAM INSULATION

What Is Spray Foam Insulation?

Huntsman Building Solutions spray foam insulation is a polyurethane thermal insulation that is applied by surface spraying.

It creates a seamless, thermal barrier that seals air leakage and drafts, something that traditional insulation struggles with.

Open-Cell Insulation

HBS open-cell spray foam delivers a superior air barrier than traditional insulation for walls, floors and roofs. Spray foam insulation will adhere to most construction surfaces and expand up to 100 times its original size to create an airtight building envelope.

Benefits of A High Performance Home

Efficient

Reduce monthly heating and cooling costs as well as limit the production of CO₂ with airtight thermal insulation.

Comfortable

Create a quiet, comfortable environment by sealing all gaps and voids, reducing unwanted drafts and airborne noises in your home.

Healthy

Build tight, ventilate right for ideal indoor conditions. Minimize the amount of dust, allergens, and outdoor noise from entering your home.

Durable

Ensure your home is better protected by improving structural strength and maintaining insulation properties to the lifetime of the building with HBS closed-cell spray foam insulation.

Certifications

Our products have also been recognized by several professional bodies

Sustainability

For every drum of spray foam sold in the EU, we are planting 5 trees in National Park High Tatras.

As the champion of the recycling-plastic-into-insulation movement, Huntsman Building Solutions is providing comfort to homeowners while offering the world a solution to the growing plastic waste problem.
